

Beauty of Sri Lanka

Ajanta Sarkar

Sri Lanka is a small island surrounded by three big seas. The Sri Lankan island comprises of plenty of natural spectacle and is full of serene landscape along with exciting, spectacular scenic places. However, it can be said that the island cannot be totally covered within a very short period of time. If you need to cover it, you need to take at least 10-15 days in your hand for travelling.

For the travelholics, we can say that in Sri Lanka there are at least 3 important and attractive points to note about the country. They are – (1) Cleanliness (2) Yoga and (3) The pleasant environment of spice gardens.

Almost all the cities of Sri Lanka are very clean. In our country we are always dependent upon the national slogan called “Swach Bharat”.

However, in this island we see that cleanliness is the birthright of the people staying here.

Foreigners do come to visit Sri Lanka for practicing yoga. Basically, maximum population of Sri Lanka is the believers of Buddhism. This can be identified by seeing many Buddha statues throughout the cities of Sri Lanka.

One of the interesting thing what I have seen is that every full moon day in this sea surrounded Sri Lanka is a public holiday. Educational institutions and Offices remains shut in this day. The full moon days are also called as ‘Poya’ in local language.

The historical perspective of entire Sri Lanka is based on the history of Anuradhapuram.

Galle city is located at the South West part of Sri Lanka. Among other interesting places there is an International Cricket Stadium just located adjacent to the sea. The National Museum of Sri Lanka is also located at Galle. However, one of the tragic incidents of Galle is that the Tsunami of 2004 has gulped most of the historical sites of Galle. Despite that there are also many historical sites at Galle.

Among all these, the scene of the night in Colombo which is surrounded by the seas, the moon is seemed to have some amazing mysteriousness in itself. This creates a unique unlimited tide of infinite joy in our minds. It makes a harmony in the natural serene tide of splendors. ●
